A STOLEN SECRET.

How Minister Jewell Learned to Make Russia Leather.

Jewell, like all men brought up to learn a trade, and who afterward gained prominence in affairs, made now and then unconscious revelations of his early training. During one of the campaigns in which he was engaged he found himself at a country hotel where the table was banqueted, but the rooms few and small. It was necessary in order that the whole party might be housed for each bed to be occupied by two persons. The governor's roommate was a young politician, who could not hide his surprise when the governor just before retiring rolled the sleeves of his night shirt over as far up as his shoulders, and then bathed his arms in cold water.

"You wonder why I do this," said the governor. "Well, I couldn't sleep unless I did. When I was a youngster learning the tanners' trade, I used to have my arms in the vats all day long, and at night my skin would smart as though I had been stung by nettles. I could not bear to have any cloth touch them. So I got the habit of rolling my shirt sleeves as far as I could, and thus I have slept ever since."

When Jewell was minister to Russia, he played a Yankee trick upon the Russians, the benefits of which we are reaping even to this day in this country. Like every other American tanner, he had long wanted to know the secret of the process of manufacturing Russia leather. He had experimented with a few dollars himself, only to learn that the secret was not to be discovered.

When at the court of St. Petersburg, he professed great interest in Russian industries and was shown through many of the manufactures there. By and by there came an opportunity to go through a factory where Russia leather was manufactured. Jewell was all smiles and courtesies and seemed profoundly interested in those things which really did not interest him and wholly blind to the very things he went to that place to see. But he was not so blind as they thought. When he came out of that factory, he had discovered, as he believed, the process, and he brought the discovery back to this country with him, so that by and by the United States began to turn out a very good article of leather resembling the Russian product.—Philadelphia Press.

A HISTORICAL MYTH.

The Story of General Jackson's Cotton Bales Breasted as a Pleading Fiction.

There are few of the schoolboys of several generations preceding the present who do not remember being taught that General Jackson won the battle of New Orleans by throwing up a breastwork of cotton bales and meeting the British assault behind them.

A dramatic account of this was in all the school histories and several others, and the novelty of the affair appealed vividly to the imagination. The cold facts of later history prove this all to have been fiction. Henry Adams, in his history of Madison's administration, mentions no such feature. McMaster, in his latest volume, refers to the story in a note only to say that there were two or three cotton bales used in one place, and they were either set on fire or knocked out at once.

Jackson's line of breastworks was of earth irregularly thrown up and of varying height along its length. The trained sharpshooters of the west did great work as marksmen behind it and so galled the heavily laden British troops that they had no alternative but to be shot or retreat before the American line.

The schoolbook story used to be that the Americans lost six killed and seven wounded. McMaster places the figures of killed and wounded at 70. The British, it seems, were not all repulsed according to the popular story. The right line of the American troops was driven in, and the British left advanced a mile in the rear of Jackson on the way to New Orleans.

He was really flanked by this success, but the terrific slaughter he inflicted upon the British in the center, involving the death of the first and second generals in command, completely dispirited them and induced the return of that wing of their army that was on the way to the city.—Boston Herald.

Lincoln and the Highwayman.

The following is a story of Abraham Lincoln which, if it is not true—as it probably is not—is at least entitled to a place in legendary literature: Lincoln was once riding along a lonely road when an ill-looking man, who held a cocked revolver, suddenly faced him.

"What do you want, my friend?" Lincoln asked.

"I am going to shoot you," answered the man.

"Well," said Lincoln, "I don't mind being killed, but I should like to know your reasons."

"I once vowed," said the man, "that if I ever met a man homelier than I am I would shoot him."

Lincoln looked critically at his assailant for a minute, and then said:

"Well, if I am any homelier than you are, then for pity's sake shoot!"

Lincoln was a handsome young man, but in middle life dissipation destroyed every trace of his former good looks, and at first glance he seemed singularly repulsive.

In a State of Bankruptcy

—is the condition of our system if the liver becomes inactive so that the germs and poisons can accumulate within the body. Keep the liver and bowels active and we're in a condition of healthy prosperity and have sufficiently well-vested capital to draw upon in the hour of need. The liver cleans out the poisonous germs which enter the system, just so surely as the liver regulates the system, so do Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate the liver. Keep this in mind, and you solve the problem of good health and good living. The "Pleasant Pellets" have a tonic, strengthening effect upon the lining membrane of the stomach and bowels, which effectually cures Biliousness, Sick Headache, Constipation, Indigestion, Loss of Appetite, Bad Taste in Mouth, Sour Eructations, and will often cure Dyspepsia. The "Pellets" are tiny, because the vegetable extracts are refined and concentrated. Easy to take, no griping as with old-fashioned pills. As a "dinner pill," to promote digestion, take one each day after dinner. To relieve the distress arising from over-eating, nothing equals one of these little "Pellets."

Mrs. MELISSA ATWATER, of Steuben, Washington Co., Me., writes: "As regards the little 'Pellets,' I think I could not do without them in the house. I have spoken highly to friends and neighbors of them, and many are taking them through my advice. I write to say they are the best pill I can take, especially for an after-dinner pill, I think they have no equal."

WHAT FREE COINAGE MEANS

There seems to be a general misapprehension of the meaning of the term "free coinage." Many persons believe that gold and silver were coined free of charge at the United States mints prior to 1873, when an act was passed prohibiting the coinage of silver on private account and limiting the legal tender power of silver coins to five dollars. Such however was not the fact. The mint charges on gold bullion, or on coins below the standard weight, and not required to be parted, were one dollar per 1,000 ounces. For parting bullion containing gold and silver the charges ranged from two to six cents per ounce, according to the quantity of gold which it contained, and if there was base metal in the bullion an additional charge of one cent per ounce was made. For refining silver bullion less than 997 fine the charge was two cents per ounce. There was also a charge for tonguing, and a charge for alloy, making the total charge for coining 1,000 ounces of silver $3.68.

At the present time the impression prevails that if a twenty dollar gold piece is melted the owner can take the metal to the United States mint and exchange it for twenty dollars. Those who labor under that impression will have their minds disabused of the idea if they try the experiment. No deposit of bullion of less than one hundred dollars is received at the mint, and there is a bar charge of ten cents on each $100 value, a tonguing charge which ranges from one-half to two cents per ounce, and an alloy charge.

An ounce of fine gold—180 grains—is worth $20.67. A twenty dollar gold piece contains 484.4 grains of gold, and 51.6 grains of alloy. As the value of the 484.4 grains of gold, at $20.67 per ounce, is $20.67, the Government would lose the cost of alloy and of mintage if there were no mint charges. Free coinage of gold and silver at the ratio of 16 to 1, does not mean that the Government shall coin these metals free of charge for anybody who takes a bar of the value of $100 of either metal to the mint. Silver men do not ask for that. What they want and what they mean by the free coinage of silver on an equality with gold, is that the mints shall coin both metals on private account, as was the custom from the establishment of the mint in 1792 up to 1873, subject to charges for parting, alloy etc.

At present the mints coin gold on private account subject to certain charges, but they coin silver only on Government account, and the Government chooses to have only a very limited quantity of the metal coined, as it prefers to issue interest-bearing bonds to the gold syndicate, to coining legal tender standard dollars with which to pay its debts.

Silver men do not want the Government to buy an ounce of silver, though the gold press and speakers allege that they do. All they ask is that the mints shall be used, as the founders of the Government intended they should be, and as they were until the infamous Act of 1873 was placed on the statutes, for the coinage of gold and silver for the public, charging reasonable rates for the service. If every mint in the United States was run to its full capacity the total coinage of silver would not much exceed one dollar per capita for the population of the United States; and the requirements of commerce demand that at least that much money be added annually to the circulating medium of the country. As it is now, especially in the agricultural States, the products of which maintain the balance of trade with foreign countries in our favor, there is not money enough in circulation and enterprise is paralyzed.

A DISTURBANCE IN THE OLD PARTIES.

The Chicago Record, a paper which does not advocate the gold standard nor the free coinage of silver, says the silver question will be the paramount issue in the next campaign and is now causing a great disturbance in the old parties. Life-long Republicans are in the ranks of the free silver advocates and will support the party most favorable to that cause, and staunch Democrats are decidedly opposed to free silver and will leave the party if it puts a free silver plank in its platform.

It is admitted that if one or the other of the old parties do not put an unequivocal silver plank in its platform a third party will do so. The opinion is now expressed that the silver men will endeavor to capture the National Democratic convention and nominate a free coinage candidate for President. That would cause the gold bug Democrats to bolt and go into the Republican ranks. What the Republicans would gain by this accession they would more than lose by desertions from their own ranks, as at least one-third of their number are in favor of free coinage. The silver producing States would all cast their electoral votes for the free coinage candidate, as would also every Southern State, with the possible exception of Delaware, Maryland and West Virginia. The great Central States, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin, Iowa, Minnesota, Kansas, Nebraska and the Dakotas are said to be for silver so that in a square fight on the question the silver candidate would have a large majority, though every State east of the lakes and north of the Potomac should vote for the gold standard candidate. The gold party, with the friends of silver united, could not carry more than twelve or fourteen States nor get more than 150 electoral votes in the Union.

CROOKED WORK.

The Southern Pacific Company's Interest in a Fraudulent Claim.

SANTA FE, N. M., June 14.—James Addison Peralta Reavis, who for some days has been on the witness stand in the famous Peralta land claim case, has made admissions most damaging to the Southern Pacific railroad management. His story is that he abandoned the Peralta grant until a row arose between Tom Scott of the Texas Pacific and the Southern Pacific magnates, Huntington, Crocker and others, when the railroad fight developed and Scott beat the Southern Pacific out of its land grant. Reavis thought his Willing papers in the Peralta grant might be of some value to the Southern Pacific. He showed them first to V. W. Stow, the well-known politician and lawyer of the Pacific Slope. Stow confirmed his impression that he had something the Southern Pacific would like to get hold of. Reavis and the papers reached the inner circles of the Southern Pacific management. (The Southern Pacific made a contract to furnish all the money necessary for the prosecution of the Peralta claim, in return for which the Southern Pacific was to have half the grant. From that time Reavis acted, he said, under the direction of counsel of the Southern Pacific. He discovered in June, 1882, that the Willing deed was spurious; yet in March, 1883, under the advice of counsel, he filed before the Surveyor-General of Arizona the claim to the grant based on the Willing deed, and this counsel was that of the Southern Pacific.

THE PULLMAN COMPANY.

The Attorney General of Illinois Thinks the Corporation is Downed.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., June 14.—Attorney General Moloney, speaking of the effect this decision would have upon the proposed re-organization of the trust and other litigation now pending, said: "The officers and directors and stockholders of the defunct corporation have had a receiver appointed in Chicago on the ground that the corporation is insolvent. I have the impression, but how I got it I cannot say, that this corporation is not insolvent. If that is true I cannot see how the United States Courts could have jurisdiction."

"Proceedings in chancery are now pending in the Circuit Court of Peoria, the headquarters and place of business of the defunct corporation, for winding up its affairs, and it strikes me that that is the proper way in which the assets of the corporation should be administered upon. At any rate, the corporation is dead and the stock wiped out."

Attorney-General Moloney is gratified at his victory in this case and confidently expects that the decision means victory for him in other cases now pending. Speaking of the case against the Pullman Company he said: "It is plain from the language used by the Supreme Court in this decision that the Pullman Palace Car Company will meet with the same fate as the Whisky Trust. The language used by the Court in this connection sounds the death knell of the Pullman corporation."

EULOGIZING REED.

Senator Squire's Opinion of the Maine Statesman.

NEW YORK, June 14.—Senator Squire of Washington in an interview on the political situation says: "Harrison, McKinley, Reed and Allison are all able men. What next year will bring forth in the way of a settlement of the money question no one can forecast. The Fifty-fourth Congress has yet to sit. Reed is an able parliamentarian and is the most brilliant man. As a tactician he is the peer of any man living. It is possible that some concessions may be made. Cleveland may not take the stand of an extremist."

DURRANT'S TRIAL.

He will not Ask for a Change of Venue. SAN FRANCISCO, June 14.—The trial of Theodore Durrant for the Emanuel Church murders will begin on July 20th before Superior Judge Murphy. Durrant's counsel says he will not move for a change of venue.

Retiring From Business.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 14.—The Bank of Sisson, Crocker & Co. is about to retire. The business is about to consolidate with the Crocker-Woolworth National Bank. The Bank of Sisson, Crocker & Co. is retiring because of lack of commercial business, the principal accounts being those of the stockholders. The capital of the Crocker-Woolworth Bank will remain at $1,000,000.

A DREADFUL CATASTROPHE.

A Four Story Building Blown Up and Several Lives Lost.

FALL RIVER, Mass., June 14.—The worst catastrophe that has visited the city since the Granite mill fire occurred this morning. In the Langley harness shop, a four-story building on Cony street, the new boiler exploded in the basement, blowing out the entire end of the structure and allowing the upper floors to settle into a mass of ruins. There were about 40 persons—most of them women—at work in the shops, of whom only Henry J. Langley, proprietor; George E. Davol, foreman, and seven other employees had been rescued alive up to 9:30. The flames communicated with the ruins soon after the explosion. The firemen made heroic efforts to rescue the imprisoned work people. Shrieks from the girls in the ruins were mingled with agonizing cries of friends. Every physician who could be reached was sent at once to the scene. The offices and houses in the vicinity were turned into temporary hospitals.

At 9 o'clock the badly charred and scarcely recognizable body of a woman was taken from the ruins. The fire had been quenched but it was still smouldering, and the work of rescue went on with great difficulty.

Machinist Trip was among those who escaped. A girl named Jalbert and a sister-in-law who worked side by side on the third floor escaped. One was unhurt and the other received slight bruises. Miss Jalbert says there was a terrible report followed by a shock, the roof seemed to lift and then fall, completely demolishing the building.

AN OREGON STAGE ROBBED.

A Lone Highwayman Makes a Small Raise.

ROSEBURG, Or., June 14.—Yesterday the stage bound for Coos Bay, George Lainger, driver, was held up on Hoover hill, fourteen miles from Roseburg and four miles this side of Olalla postoffice. A lone highwayman stepped out of the brush and commanded a halt at the muzzle of a gun. The driver threw out the way-pouch, telling the robber that there was nothing else but papers, thus saving the through letter-pouch, in which were at least six registered packages which, probably, contained merchandise only.

There were but two passengers on board—a San Francisco commercial traveler, Raymond Brumbaugh, who was inside, and a woman, Mrs. Francis who was on the seat with the driver. Brumbaugh was unarmed. He yielded $30 when called upon to contribute. The robber then disappeared in the brush and the stage went on.

The highwayman was of medium size, with a mask over the lower part of his face. He wore a white slouch hat, dirty duck coat, striped cotton trousers and a No. 7 shoe, as the measurement of his tracks indicated. W. R. Wells arrived here with the news about noon, and Deputy Sheriff Shambrook left for the scene of the robbery this afternoon.

ROSS BUCKLEY APPEARS IN PUBLIC.

The Terms Upon Which He Stinted Rudolph.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 14.—The Bulletin says: Chris Buckley now walks the streets after months passed in seclusion, through fear of Jake Rudolph. Rudolph has been in jail, charged with an attempt to murder Business Manager Elliot of the San Francisco Chronicle. Rudolph escaped prosecution by pleading insanity. He was afterwards discharged from the asylum then rearrested. He threatened to kill Buckley, alleging that the latter had defrauded him out of property. After being in jail some months Sam Rainey acted as peace-maker, and upon Buckley transferring to Rudolph one hundred shares in a local lottery company and a house and lot, Rudolph agreed to not molest the ex-boss. Buckley then procured bonds for Rudolph who was released and peace restored.

FOREMAN CHARLES ROLFE.

Superintendent of One of the Biggest Composing Rooms in America.

Up in the top story of the Globe Building, where the typesetting and other machines do everything but talk, says the Boston Globe, there is a pleasant-faced, clear skinned light complexioned man of 52, who has been with the Globe ever since the birthday of that great paper. He is the night foreman of the composing room, and looks 15 years younger than he really is. His name is Mr. Charles Rolfe.

Nervous headaches that well-nigh drove him to distraction first introduced him to Paine's Celery Compound. That was five years ago, and until that time he was one of the most pronounced opponents of prepared remedies to be found in the city.

Just how Paine's Celery Compound was first brought to his attention he does not remember, but it has done him so much good that the Compound has no more enthusiastic champion living. He is as happy, as any one in the enjoyment of good health could be, and for that happiness he gives full credit to Paine's Celery Compound. Read what he has to say about the medicine:

"I am always ready to recommend Paine's Celery Compound when I hear of a case similar to my own. Some five years ago I was suffering from headaches which were sometimes so severe during working hours of the night that I would clap my hands over my head to 'hold the top on,' the pain being excruciating. These attacks would occur sometimes as often as three times a week. Sleep was out of the question, the pillow seemed but a block of wood.

"Just at the time I was suffering most I bought a bottle of Paine's Celery Compound, began at once to take it, and before a week had passed the headaches began to disappear. I felt almost a new man before the bottle was empty. I purchased more, and for two years kept it in the house for use."

WEATHER BULLETIN.

A Warm Wave and Excessive Evaporation.—The Temperature will Average Below the Normal.

(Copyrighted 1895, by W. T. Foster.)

St. Joseph, Mo., June 14.—My last bulletin gave forecasts of the storm wave to cross the continent from June 19th to 23d, and the next will reach the Pacific Coast about the 24th, cross the west of Rockies country by the close of the 25th, Great Central Valleys 26th to 28th and Eastern States 29th.

This storm will be preceded by a very warm period, excessive evaporation and drought, and following it will come very much cooler weather with a large increase of rain and good crop growing weather in numerous and extensive parts of the United States.

This and the preceding storm will be above the average in force and high winds may be expected.

The warm wave will cross the west of Rockies country about the 24th, the Great Central valleys the 26th and the Eastern States the 27th. A cool wave will cross the west of Rockies country about the 27th, the Great Central valleys the 29th and the Eastern States July 1st.

Indications favor sufficient rain in most parts of the corn belt to make a fair crop and the only probable drawback is the expected low average of the temperature.

Indications are that the last part of June will be warmer than the first part, but altogether the temperature will average below in the great corn producing section.

The same conditions of temperature is expected for July and August, averaging very cool in the Missouri, Ohio and Upper Mississippi valleys with a fair amount of rain.

The drought and hot weather of April and May were correctly foretold and an average of cool weather, though accompanied by some very hot days, and an average rainfall for the three principal corn months may be relied on with a reasonable degree of certainty.

Killing frosts will come early, not long after September 16th, in large portions of the corn producing country and farmers should finish their plowing early in order that their corn may mature early. Where replants were late the corn will probably get frosted unless cut early.

The above in reference to the corn crop applies only to the north part of the country drained by the Mississippi river and its tributaries.

GOVERNMENT METHODS.

Making too Much Fuss About the Mint Shortage.

The U. S. Government has subjected itself to many severe criticisms in connection with the mint cases.

If the methods are kept up much longer there will be rebellion. It has arrested suspects on a rainy day, put them under heavy bonds and placed some in jail. The Republican press blamed the officials for not catching Heney and charged that they didn't want him. Now because they want him had enough to put him under $25,000 bonds and confine him in jail, there is another big kick. It seems hard for the present U. S. Government to please the Republican press. It is blamed for the small bonds of Piper and Pickler and blamed for the large bonds of Heney and Jones. It is blamed for not watching the $75,000 shortage closer than cussed for trying to recover it.

It begins to look as if the Government was making a great fuss over a paltry $75,000. If it had been $100,000 the blamed old Government would have called an extra session of Congress.

Hang a Government that can't let the boys have a little fun with the mint.—Carson Appeal.

PUBLIC SPEAKING.

The Momentous Questions of the Day Will be Discussed.

Steel Tower and Water Tank.

Dr. Bergstein, Superintendent of the Nevada Hospital for Mental Diseases, is having a tower and water tank erected at the hospital which will supply every room with water. The tower and tank are made of steel.

The tower will be 75 feet high, and the tank is 14 feet high with a capacity of 16,000 gallons. The total weight of tower and tank is 24,000 pounds and when the tank is full it will weigh 168,000 pounds. The tower is erected on granite piers, laid in cement and capable of sustaining ten million pounds.

The water is pumped by water power from a well on the bank of the Truckee into a tank, the elevation of which is sufficient to force the water into every room in the hospital building.

GRAND LODGE KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS.

Election of Grand Officers—Adjournment and Banquet.

The Grand Lodge Knights of Pythias adjourned at a late hour yesterday afternoon after concluding a large amount of business for the good of the Grand Domain of Nevada.

The morning session was occupied in the reading and adoption of a new constitution. A committee was appointed to revise the laws of this Grand Domain to conform with the new Supreme Statutes. At 11 o'clock, the constitutional hour for the election of Grand Officers for the ensuing year, the Grand Chancellor declared nominations in order. There was a spirited but good natured contest for the several positions, lasting until the middle of the afternoon session and resulting as follows: T. R. Hofer of Carson, Supreme Representative, N. A. Hummel of Wadsworth, Grand Chancellor; J. D. Torreyson of Carson, Grand Vice Chancellor; W. D. Jones of Austin, Grand Prelate; A. B. Stoddard of Virginia G. K. of B. and S. Geo. Hatch of Virginia, G. M. of L. J. Cohn of Reno, G. M. at A.; P. Barnes of Dayton, G. L. G.; H. C. Hendricks of Virginia, G. O. G.; J. J. Westfield, J. Miller and J. F. Condon, Trustees.

Winnemucca was chosen as the place to hold the next annual session.

The afternoon was then taken up by the installation of the Grand Officers and routine work until the hour of adjournment.

A banquet was tendered the members of the Grand Lodge by Pyramid Lodge last evening and a good many of the delegates remained over. The people of Wadsworth are highly complimented for their many kindnesses and the entertainment furnished the Knights. The business houses and streets were festooned with bunting and everything was done to make the visit of the representatives a pleasant one.

The same courtesies will be extended to the Odd Fellows next week and the members of this Order may depend on being royally entertained.

Electric lighting has so far advanced that light can be made without heat and this again illustrates the fact that sunlight is not heat. Tesla has succeeded in lighting a room without an electric lamp, without wires and without a conductor other than the atmosphere, and has fairly proven the electromagnetic theory of light.

Here is a dog story which you can believe or not, as you please. A gentleman remarked of a friend's dog that the two eyes of the animal were remarkably different in size.
